WOODSTOWN CASH

A photograph of a utility pole with a dense network of power lines and cables, set against a brick building with arched windows and a street scene. The sky is overcast. The utility pole is the central focus, with numerous wires and cables hanging from it. The brick building has several arched windows. A car is visible on the street to the right.

“We need more wire in the air”
David Daily

More wire, More Poles,
More wire, Larger thicker poles

Time to think about a plan to bury the lines.
